

The Spider Web - The Cave

Things have shifted slightly with these Spider Web pulls.. I was enjoying the 1 card pull but with the last few months, more than one card has popped out during a shuffle or a pendulum pull. And frankly, this multiple card pull has clarified and given more information. Which, for me, has been very helpful. Only one card was pulled for the Spider Web but I chose 2 more to gain more insights.

This month the first card the pendulum chose was The Cave. Since I feel we have been doing a lot of shadow and quiet work .. I wanted to know if we truly were missing something in the dark or is there something about the Cave we need clarification on? Well, we received The Threshold and The Pilgrim. We are in the Cave. We have done so much work and now we are right on the edge of stepping into new worlds. But, damn it's bright out there and we have been enjoying the quiet and the dark. But it's time. We cannot live in The Cave and we need to step forward. There is nothing waiting behind us. As Pilgrims, we need to be the bold ones. The ones who risk the fear, the unknown and the danger. We are the ones we have been waiting for. And Source energy is saying.. it is okay to pause and appreciate this moment. We ARE right on the edge of a new world. Both individually and collectively. We are allowed to feel the trepidation, the gravity and the awareness. But.. forward we must go. The old version of us has digested and transmuted old energy.. we are ready to embrace the new.

This month, I am inviting you to venture into an unknown territory. There is no need to risk danger, but I'm asking you to risk comfort. We often go the same places, do the same things, etc. So, this month.. just once.. go somewhere different or venture into a new experience that makes you a little nervous. The Cave (our habits and comfort zone) is a wonderful place. Gentle, familiar and insular. And if you can work with that energy, you learn your sticky spots. You look at your patterns and recognize where you have held yourself back or been unwilling to adventure. This month, I want you to choose something new. A new hiking trail you have never taken but always wanted to try. A class you have been too afraid to sign up for. It can even be as simple as going to a different library location than usual. Or picking up a different genre of book. Go as big or as little as you feel you are up to. However, choose something VERY different for you. And as you embark on this new location, class, adventure, etc .. this of this:

I am a pioneer. I embrace the adventure of living.

Want to enhance your Spider Web work? Sign up for my monthly support kit! Each month I create custom packages to help integrate the messages from Source.
www.kellykeyser.com

kelly keyser