

The Spider Web - The Magi

Creativity meets wisdom this month with The Magi. The Magi has echoes of The Magician in tarot. A reminder that part of the 'magic' is that we already possess skills, history and compiled knowledge. It's simply a matter of USING these things in new and exciting ways. A Magi creates new things.. often on old foundations. They look at a table of skills, tools, baubles and wisdom and mix them all up to make something new. Almost with a childlike curiosity and an experimenting mind. What was a box.. now becomes a rocket ship! That ability to compile and organize information now becomes you creating a 'mom's cooking dinner' for each other mutual aid for your block or friend group. Your funny stories get compiled into a children's book? The world is available to you and your creativity is all that is needed. Find your skills. Look at where you do things well or love to immerse yourself and transmute this into something brand new. The Universe is asking us to not necessarily 'recreate the wheel' or learn something completely new.. she's simply asking you to USE the skills you already possess. Experiment with new aspects of tools you already have honed. You are already The Magician.. are you putting those skills to work?

This month, let's try to focus on what we do well. This is another project of compilation and observing yourself. Put a blank piece of paper on your fridge. Every time you do something well.. and it can be tiny.. "I finished all the laundry today, from wash to putting away". "I calmed down an argument between my kiddos/friends/co-workers". "I made cookies for work that everyone raved about". Put these down. They ALL count. As you make your list.. try to think of a word or two that succinctly explains the skillset of said completed task. Finishing all the laundry? That's great follow through. Calming down an argument? That is negotiation. Making amazing cookies? That's nourishing others. Are you seeing patterns? Things that you do over and over? Can you now find other opportunities to use these in your communities, both large and small? Each of your seemingly insignificant skills/wisdoms are needed! You simply need to observe what you do with fresh eyes.. throw them into the cauldron and let them create new and nourishing things! You are magic!
